Improv for All

11:00 AM-noon ET
Instructors TBA

This CADA class is for those who love to play theatre games, make up silly characters, and make people laugh! For all ages, all abilities, all levels of experience. Skills include: saying "yes" to scene partners, listening and responding, taking turns, making appropriate choices, developing story structure, knowing when to enter and exit, and knowing when and how to end scenes. This class is for both new and continuing students.

Virtual Theatre Production

1:00-2:00 PM ET
Instructors TBA

Explore the techniques of devising a virtual performance through theatre games, improvisation and research. Topics include: the power of diversity in developing a theme, developing mutual support for all participants, planning and organizing a rehearsal schedule, techniques for co-acting and shared directing. The class will develop an original devised performance to be shared at the CADA Variety Show.

Voice Acting

3:00-4:00 PM ET
Instructors TBA

Create multiple characters by employing vocal techniques involving pitch, breath control, posture, jaw stretches, resonators, and all the articulators (lips, teeth, tongue). The class will work with characters that are found in scripts for stage, film, radio, tv and animation. The goal will be for each actor to develop at least three different and consistent character voices that will be shared at the CADA Variety Show.
